

Polyhouse as a source of income: Nursery production of high quality vegetable saplings

A farmer of Dhari village Brijmohan Singh Rawat proved that polyhouse can be very useful technique for nursery raising of seasonal and non-seasonal vegetables and can hence become a source of income generation.

HARC organized various trainings and demonstrations, under DASP, for the farmers of Naugaon development block to increase their awareness about polyhouse and nursery raising. One such training and demonstration was held in Dhari village in the fields of Sh. Brijmohan Singh Rawat and Sh. Bharat Singh.

As a result, Brijmohan Singh Rawat earned a profit of more than ten thousand rupees by selling the saplings of tomatoes, capsicum and brinjal. He encouraged other farmers to use polyhouse for nursery raising and there by get better productivity and diversification. He is motivating other farmers also to use organic manure and pesticides, as they are very effective to check the plant diseases. As a result, 10 such polyhouses are also made in Naugaon development block resulting in better income generation and self-dependence of the farmers.